Automotive Intergroup

What is CoRAI?

The Committee of the Regions intergroup “Future of the Automotive Industry” (CoRAI) is an interregional group of members and alternate members of the European Committee of the Regions providing opportunities to

- exchange experiences among the territories about different issues concerning the automotive sector and the future of mobility (e.g. automated driving, sustainable transport fuels, skills, industrial policy, infrastructure, development of regions with automotive or supply industry)
- contact and exchange views and best practices with the European Institutions and other stakeholders;
- foster the contacts among automotive and mobility clusters, regions and cities.

CoRAI is a platform of members from different political groups, commissions and member states. By joining CoRAI members show that automotive and supply industry and new developments in the mobility sector matter to them, to their citizens, educational and research organisations and economy. Joining CoRAI does not cause any obligation but shows that your region/city is interested in the sector.

CoRAI was set up and has been working successfully since 2009. The intergroup organises two political meetings a year on topics of interest to regional and local politicians, always inviting representatives from industry, clusters and other stakeholders in order to enable an exchange. Topics recently covered by CoRAI are the skills needs of automotive and supply industry and the potential effect Brexit will have on automotive regions. In 2019 CoRAI organised the 1st regional summit on testing autonomous driving.
